Re: Notice of Potential Liability at Southwest Properties portion Unit Two of the Wells G & H Superfund Site located in Woburn, Massachusetts.

Dear Mr. LeMay,

I am in receipt of your letter dated June 2, 2014. I James G. Lamm currently hold the title of President of Lamco Chemical Company and am essentially the only remaining employee. I am responding on the company's behalf. The company was started by my grandfather and operated by him until his death and then by father during the years 1949 to 1985. After 1985, my father resigned as President, but remained fully active in the day to day operation, order processing, receiving, manufacturing and finances of the company, +/- 45 - 50 hours a week until 2010. He passed in February 2012. I have no personal knowledge about the association between Lamco Chemical Company, Inc. and Whitney Barrel and have relied on my aging father's knowledge, the details of which have been previously provided to EPA (see previous responses in 2004 and 2005). All correspondence and responses have been authored by my father George L Lamm, and signed by me as President. As stated earlier, I had, nor have any first hand knowledge of any relationship with the above Superfund Site.

Since my father's death, I have been gradually winding up the affairs of Lamco Chemical. At present, the company has a small amount of inventory of cleaning chemicals of uncertain limited value and receivables of about $4,000 and no other assets, and payables in excess of $ 10,000. In short, the company has no financial ability to respond to your Notice of Potential Liability and Demand for Payment. I am willing to cooperate with EPA in providing whatever additional information about the current condition of the company that might be of assistance to you.

Sincerely,

James G. Lamm
President
